Police Take Over Rest Home

Barbiturates Are Confiscated

COLUMBUS, Aug. 24—A Columbus rest home for alcoholics in which five men, a Laurelville man among them, have died recently was under city supervision today.

Police took over control of the three-story brick house last night from Operator Art Eisel and confiscated a large amount of barbiturates.

M. Nile Ford, secretary of the state pharmacy board, said the sedatives would be analyzed today to determine whether there had been any violation of state pharmacy laws.

Fireman Max J. Miller of the fire prevention bureau said he found at least eight violations of state and city fire safety laws and regulations.

The authorities said the place was licensed as a rooming house, but not as a rest home.

EISEL, WHO has served a prison term on a narcotics charge, remained on the premises last night but all authority was placed in a public health nurse and two policemen assigned to take care of several patients.

City Health Commissioner Ollie M. Goodloe said the establishment's food handling facilities are not up to standard and the food handlers have not been inspected by the city board of health.

Safety Director Donald D. Cook said he would take all possible steps to see that the place is closed permanently. He said the physician who signed the death certificates for the five residents who have died in the "home" since May 31 will be questioned again today.

The dead are Embrey Burwood, 48, of Dayton; Charles E. Swartz, 46, of Laurelville, and William R. Thomson, 50; Wayne S. Moreland, 46, and Arthur B. Wallace, 50, a 11 of Columbus.

The cause of Burwood's death was listed as a brain disorder and all the others as heart ailments.

CHS Marching Band To Begin Work Next Week

Circleville high school's snappy marching band will begin practice next week at the school.

This year's marching band is expected to be larger than the unit which pleased the spectators during last year's football season.

Director Truman Eberly said the 1951 band is expected to consist of 75 youngsters, while the concert band will number about 80.

Two new drum majorettes have been selected to front the band this year, and 24 young musicians have been promoted into the high school unit.

NEW MAJORETTES selected for this year are Lohrita Buskirk and Lynda Dresbach, picked during a tryout program at the school last Wednesday.

New members who have been promoted into the senior band this year are: Yvonne Clifton, Catherine Fowler, Nancy Ankom, Beverly Brink, Donald Greenlee and Gary Cooper, clarinets; Bob Wellington, Carol Leist and Carolyn Ferguson, alto saxophones; Gary Mason, tenor saxophone; Barbara Barthelmas, Dick Phebus, Margie Magill, Larry Gordon, Tom Vaughn and Gwynne Jenkins, trumpets; David Steele, trombone; Walter Sieverts and Donna Harrison, baritone; and Jerry Johnson, Pauline Hill and Ralph Sterling, drums.

He Told Wife—His One Mistake

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—A young Czech's ticket to America bounced on him today.

As a result, Ladislav Hudec faces deportation to his Communist-dominated country.

Hudec's troubles all started when he made one mistake—telling his 60-year-old wife, Helen, that he married her two years ago while she was visiting in Czechoslovakia only to get into the U. S. He still isn't a citizen.

EPIDEMICS THREATEN CITY

Thousands Left Homeless In Wake Of Hurricane

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 24—Mexico estimated its dead at more than 50 today and its homeless in the thousands in the wake of a hurricane which caused a dam break and landslides and killed some 200 persons in the Caribbean area.

Heavy rains brought by the hurricane forced a 100-foot break in a dam at Cardenas, about 250 miles west of storm-lashed Tampico.

Garcia Ramos, mayor of the city of 30,000 said that 22 persons were known to have been killed and another 28 are believed dead.

He said that 16 persons were injured severely enough to seek treatment and that 40 homes were destroyed.

A train reportedly was caught in a landslide about 130 miles from San Luis Potosi on the line linking that city with Tampico. The number of dead and injured could not be determined immediately.

REPORTS reaching Mexico City said that at least five persons were drowned in Tampico and that one merchant ship and five fishing boats in the port were sunk.

As many as 300 houses were said to have been destroyed, water mains are broken, and complete inundation of the city is threatened by the rise of the Panuco and Tamesi Rivers.

Epidemics of typhoid and malaria are said to threaten the city and martial law and a curfew have been imposed to prevent looting.

Tourist Bureau Seeks Landlord

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24—The San Francisco Tourist and Convention Bureau was looking for a capitalist today willing to rent a 35-room home to a bunch of Communists.

The Communists are members of the Russian delegation to the Japanese Peace Treaty ceremonies scheduled to begin Sept. 4.

Konstantin A. Efremov, former Soviet consul general in San Francisco, asked the bureau yesterday for the 35-room house. If such a mansion is unavailable, Efremov said his countrymen will settle for hotel accommodations as follows:

Sixteen twin bedrooms, four three-room office suites, eight living suites and four de luxe living suites.

Niagara Falls Attempt Planned

ONT. Aug. 24—Two men—an American and a Canadian—claimed today they plan to go over Niagara Falls tomorrow in steel barrels, but they hid the details to escape threatened arrest.

Leslie Sander, New York interior decorator, and an unidentified 21-year-old Toronto youth both declared themselves determined to make the attempt Saturday.

Ontario provincial police said if they do they will be arrested, and so will anyone who helps them.

"Red" Hill, a famed Niagara stuntman and guide, was killed recently when he went over the falls in a rubber barrel.

Tampico also was hit by the hurricane. An estimated 25 to 30 workers were injured by flying glass and timber and one death was reported but unconfirmed.

Washouts and landslides blocked traffic on most roads in northeast Mexico including the much-traveled Pan-American Highway between Laredo and Mexico City.

Allied Planes Hit Communist River Crossing

KOREA, Aug. 24—A smashing strike by 116 Fifth Airforce fighter bombers Friday hit Communist vehicles, troops and supplies at a river crossing northeast of Anju, 40 miles north of the Red capital of Pyongyang.

Allied pilots claimed to have destroyed or damaged at least 100 vehicles, 28 barges and huge quantities of supplies.

The Allied strike disrupted a Communist attempt to use the barges and an underwater bridge to move supplies from the north to the south bank of the Chongchon river.

The 100 trucks damaged or destroyed were from a convoy of some 125 vehicles heading for the underwater bridge. The bridge itself was later knocked out.

On the ground, the "battle for the hills" in eastern Korea abated in intensity Friday evening after South Korean troops regained one of two hill-crests lost to the Communists Thursday.

The recaptured hill was located in the area roughly west of Kamsong well above the 38th Parallel. The Reds remained in possession of a hill north-northwest of Yanggu, which changed hands three times between morning and midnight Thursday.

Truce Parley Breakoff Termed Face-Saving Act

KAESONG, Aug. 24—United Nations military headquarters hinted today the Communist breakoff of the Korea armistice talks was a face-saving maneuver to cover up Red "blunders" during the negotiations.

Allied ground, air and naval forces meanwhile were on the alert to resume major fighting, should the suspended truce conference collapse.

The seesaw "battle of the hills" in eastern North Korea raged through its seventh day, while patrol thrusts were made in other sectors.

The Red high command charged in a message broadcast from Peiping that Allied aircraft tried to "murder" the Communist delegates in Kaesong by bombing the conference city—an allegation labelled by President Truman a "masquerade."

The broadcast however quoted the Red military leaders as expressing the hope that the Kaesong parley will be resumed and that a "just and reasonable agreement, acceptable to both sides, will be reached."

GEN. MATTHEW B. Ridgway awaited the official text of the Red communication, transmission of which was hindered by a typhoon spending its force over the Sea of Japan after sweeping across part of Korea.

The United Nations commander, a source at his Tokyo headquarters said, will give the Communist note "long, long study" before replying. Upon his answer may well hinge the question of whether the Kaesong conference is to be renewed or end in failure.

Ridgway's language experts meantime pored over Chinese, Japanese and English versions of the message from the top Red commanders, as broadcast from Peiping. They sought to glean from this comparative study some notion of what the Red military leaders have in mind.

A "background" release from Ridgway's information office said the Communists apparently are following one or both of two lines of strategy in their protests over alleged UN violations of Kaesong's neutrality.

One seeks to regain world sympathy by picturing the Reds as victims of Allied attacks while the second attempts to "force political issues into the military conference," the statement asserted.

It also suggested that the Red accusations may signify an effort by the Communists to "win back some of the face lost by their own blunders" such as the parade of Chinese Red troops past the Kaesong conference house.

THE LATTER incident caused Ridgway to suspend the talks until he received Red guarantees against a recurrence.

At the time the Reds broke off the talks a subcommittee composed of two UN and two Red delegates had held six meetings in an effort to break a deadlock. The stalemate stemmed from a controversy over where to draw a demilitarized armistice belt across Korea.

The Allies demanded the line correspond roughly to the present battlefield, most of which lies inside Red North Korea. The Communists insisted on a buffer zone straddling Parallel 38.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24—Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby, Gen. MacArthur's former intelligence chief, said today that elimination of the "infantile" ban on wiretapping evidence would help the FBI to ferret out information about U. S. Communists.

Willoughby, who completed two days of testimony before the House Un-American Activities yesterday, also suggested that each state legislature set up a spy-probing unit of its own to cooperate with the congressional group.

The retiring intelligence chief proposed, too, that at least one state university in the U. S. begin offering courses in the study of Communist tactics.

Willoughby said these are a few of the suggestions he expects to make today when he meets informally with the committee. The conference was set up at the invitation of Chairman Wood (D) Ga.

WILLOUGHBY'S testimony described the operations of the Soviet spy ring in Japan until it was uncovered in 1941, and linked such top U. S. Communists as Earl Browder and Eugene Dennis with the Sorge network.

The intelligence chief said, in recommending ways to improve committee procedure, that the government should give its "full and unqualified support." He also suggested a joint House-Senate group with increased staffs and budgets.

Willoughby praised the work of the House committee staff but he said its time and personnel are too limited.

Meanwhile, the committee said it will follow leads furnished by Willoughby to track down any Americans mentioned in

Big Plane Completely Demolished

Parts Scattered Over Wide Area

DECOTO, Cal., Aug. 24 — At least 47 persons and possibly 49 aboard a giant United Air Lines DC-6B plane were killed today when it crashed near Oakland, Cal., its destination, on a flight from Chicago.

The airline, after announcing a list of 41 passengers and six crewmen, said the death toll might include two infants not included on the passenger list.

One infant's body was recovered—the first of the victims to be taken from the wreckage.

Reports from Alameda County sheriff's deputies by radio several hours after the crash said none of the 41 passengers and six crewmen aboard had been found alive.

The huge airliner, the first of its type ever to crash, burst into flames after plunging into a ravine and was completely demolished.

Parts of the plane were scattered over a 500-yard area.

U.A.L. said the flight originated at Boston and stopped at Hartford, Conn., Cleveland, and Chicago.

The DC-6B, heavier, longer and 25 miles an hour faster than its predecessor, the DC-6, was first put into operation by United Airlines about a month ago after pilots had undergone weeks of training in its operation.

THE FIERY crash occurred in wild, hilly country near the town of Decoto, 20 miles southeast of Oakland.

Sheriff's deputies in radio equipped cars sped to the scene. The sheriff's radio office said: "They have called for cars from the coroner's office but have not asked for ambulances. It looks like all aboard were killed."

Rescue workers fought the flames and then pulled the bodies of the victims from the scattered debris.

The ill-fated airliner was plane Number 300 on Flight 615 which left Chicago at 12:45 a. m. EDT today and was due to arrive at Oakland municipal airport at 8:25 a. m. EDT.

Five minutes before its scheduled arrival time, the airliner's pilot reported by radio to the Civil Aeronautics Administration tower at San Francisco Airport that it was "on the mark" and coming in for a landing at the Oakland Field, across the bay.

The radiophone message from the plane was picked up at 8:20 a. m. and at 8:33 a. m., the Alameda County sheriff's office in Oakland received its first report on the crash near Decoto.

Stokes Returns To London From Iran Oil Talks

LONDON, Aug. 24—Britain's lord privy seal, Richard Stokes, returned to London today from the unsuccessful oil nationalization talks with Iran, still optimistic that negotiations will be resumed.

Stokes, who was greeted at Heathrow Airport by Minister of State Kenneth Younger, said: "As soon as the obstacle to providing adequate conditions for continuance of the staff at Abadan is satisfactorily cleared up—there is no reason why the discussion should not be resumed."

Prime Minister Clement Attlee, taking the view of a short-range pessimist but a long-range optimist, urged employees of the Anglo-Iranian oil company at Abadan to be patient in the face of difficulties "until reason prevails."

The foreign office in London promised yesterday to take the "necessary measures" to protect Anglo-Iranian Oil Company employees in Abadan, site of the world's largest refinery.

Tomato Ripening Advice Given By Experts

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24—Did you ever put tomatoes on a sunny window sill to ripen? That is a mistake, according to Agriculture Department scientists. They suggest that normal room temperature—not sunlight—is the key to ripening tomatoes that have not reached full redness and maturity.

A temperature of 60 to 70 degrees is best, they report.

Why not use the sunny window sill? The experts explain that in Summer the sun sometimes gives too much heat and light for the proper coloring of picked, but underripe, tomatoes.

In fact, too much sunlight may either prevent normal color development or make the color blotchy.

But that is not true, of course, for tomatoes on the vine. Most farmers realize that growing tomatoes benefit richly from vitamin-C producing sunlight. Accordingly, the experts say that Summer field grown tomatoes which get abundant sunlight contain about twice as much vitamin-C as Winter and Fall greenhouse fruit.

Of course, the refrigerator is the place for storing fresh tomatoes which are already ripe. But if you put those underripe tomatoes in the refrigerator you stop the ripening process and make the tomatoes watery.

Dog Warden Recovers Pup

Pickaway County Dog Warden Ralph Wallace Thursday recovered his favorite bird dog pup, which was stolen Monday.

Wallace reported the theft Monday when the pup, one of a litter of four, was missing from his kennel at the county dog pound.

The dog warden said he recovered the pointer Thursday at the pea-viner along the Old Canal Road following a report by Melvin Steck that he had heard a puppy whimpering there. Wallace theorized that the thief abandoned the six-week-old puppy at the viner when he learned the dog warden planned an extensive search.

Pressures Ease In Construction

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24—The Federal Reserve Board said today that inflationary pressures in the construction industry "moderated somewhat" this Spring and Summer as a result of the controls program.

The board declared that "slackening pressures" in real estate and construction "has been an important factor in reducing inflationary tendencies in the economy as a whole."

Construction broke all records during the nine months ending in March and then "declined through July, reflecting chiefly a marked reduction in residential building from the earlier extraordinary high level."

However, the board pointed out that construction activities continue "above or near earlier record levels."

Monroe School Completes Staff

Employment also has been offered to Harold Edward Graham of Portsmouth as commercial studies teacher.

Graham was graduated by Wilmington college and piloted a B-24 bomber more than three years during World War II. He has three years of teaching experience.

Big Plane Completely Demolished

The scene and managed to get firefighting equipment to the lonely spot where the airliner had plummeted to earth in flames.

Shortly before 9 a. m., EST, a deputy reported back by radio that the plane's markings definitely identified it as No. 300 of the United Air Lines.

HE SAID the flames had been put out with the firefighting equipment which had been taken over a "makeshift road" to the crash site, five miles from the nearest highway.

"The fire is out around the plane," the deputy reported. "It doesn't look to me as if there are any survivors."

A Coast Guard rescue plane also was sent over the scene of the flaming crash to assist in directing rescue work.

The sheriff's deputies carried walkie-talkie radio equipment by foot over rough terrain to the site of the crash.

Deputies in a radio car first spotted the wreck from a hilltop at 7:33 a. m. EST and rescue crews were immediately dispatched to the scene.

City Spared Insect Invasion

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Aug. 24—Citizens of Albuquerque relaxed today when they learned that the city would be spared a caterpillar invasion simply by letting nature take its course.

The word came from County Agent Joe Cole, who said the black and yellow crawlers moving toward the city from east and west will enter the pupa stage of their own evolution into moths within a few days.

The insects move about 200 yards per day. One band of the insects, driven from higher ground by drouth, was within five miles of the city on the east, the other 10 miles to the west.

Cole reported the caterpillars cover 36 square miles of land west of Albuquerque and spread out over six square miles east of the city.

BELTSVILLES INCREASE

U.S. Turkey Production Reported High This Year

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24—The Agriculture Department estimates the nation's farmers are raising a record crop of 52,774,000 turkeys this year—16 per cent more than in 1950. Production is reported to be up in all sections of the country.

Steadily rising prices during the hatching season encouraged farmers to increase their 1951 production by about seven million birds.

Last January, few officials thought that turkey production would climb that high. Turkey prices last year were the lowest since 1943, while feed prices and other costs were up.

Officials also said the number of department-developed Beltsville turkeys has been increasing rapidly for the last two years. These birds weight 4-8 pounds dressed. They are being produced the year round so that they can be sold on the market as fresh-killed young birds.

ABOUT 16 per cent of all the turkeys being raised this year are Beltsville Whites, and the totals for 1951 show a 55 per cent increase over the past season.

Officials said the trend toward early marketing is continuing to increase, and as a result, farmers are expected to market almost one-third of their birds by October, or earlier.

However, changing economic conditions and high red meat prices may induce some growers to hold on for later sale. But aside from this, growers tend to market their turkeys earlier because the early birds are easier to raise, have smaller death loss, and run less risk of early winter storm losses.

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics also reports the average American is going to eat more poultry and eggs during the coming months of 1951.

The prospects are for larger supplies and heavier eating during the second half of this year than during the first half, with the biggest increase in chicken.

By the end of 1951 the average civilian will probably have eaten about 30 pounds of chicken meat—ten per cent more than last year, and about 406 eggs—slightly more than in 1950. Turkey eating won't go much past five pounds a person, but is expected to be higher than last season.

The experts expect the retail prices of eggs and poultry to continue above last year's prices for the remainder of the year.

Dope Racket Is Smashed

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—A $500,000 a year dope racket which used the main waiting room of Bellevue hospital as its sales headquarters was smashed Wednesday by three detectives who had posed as nurses, doctors and laborers.

Police arrested two men as they said, a half ounce of pure heroin was changing hands.

One man was identified as Mariano Rubino, 42, who police said was the operator of the racket and kept regular business hours in the hospital waiting room, driving to and from work in a Cadillac. The other was identified as Arthur Ricardi, 23, who police said was receiving the dope from Rubino.

NEGLECTED OPPORTUNITY

WITH cease-fire negotiations making little progress, the possibility of turning the Nationalist Chinese army loose on the reds has been revived. A civil war in China might change the situation in Korea overnight.

No longer would it be possible for the Communists to mass divisions along the Manchurian border in preparation for an all-out assault on United States forces in Korea. An uprising around Peiping would necessitate moving these divisions into that theater.

If Chiang Kai-shek found it possible to land troops on the Chinese mainland it would ignite a civil war of sufficient proportions to keep the communists busy for months to come. But the State Department at Washington has done everything possible to discourage such a move. The Formosa coast has been blockaded by the U. S. Navy, and a line of steel and guns has been drawn around Chiang's stronghold.

The reason advanced for quarantining Chiang and his forces is that if he moved the United States might become involved too deeply, and Russia might be brought directly into the picture. It does seem to many that preventing the Chinese from fighting it out among themselves is neglecting an opportunity which would rescue American troops from a perilous situation in Korea.

At any rate, the project will be revived in and out of Congress if present appeasement efforts at Kaesong fail to bring an end to the fighting in Korea.

CITING THE RECORD

SHARP contrast in the record of the present Congress with that of its predecessor in dealing with the recommendations of the Hoover Commission is cited by the Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report. Whereas the 81st Congress, during 1949 and 1950, enacted about half the proposals for streamlining the government, the 82nd Congress, during its first six months, has done nothing at all in this direction.

Indication that the failure may not be altogether that of Congress lies in the fact that President Truman has submitted but a single reorganization plan to the present session. Some of those he laid before the last Congress were rejected, but that does not preclude their resubmission with a re-vamping of features found objectionable.

Among important proposals in the Hoover report not yet acted on are those affecting the Veterans Administration and the Agriculture and Postoffice departments.

Congress may be forgiven in a degree for its absorption in investigations. But somewhere along the line it should be possible to find time for problems as important as those dealt with in the Hoover report.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Herbert Norman was studying in the Japanese department at Columbia, when Dr. Karl August Wittfogel met him as a member of a Communist study group conducted by Moses Finkelstein in the Summer of 1938. Dr. Wittfogel testified before the McCarran Committee that those who attended the study group, including himself, were at that time Communists.

The following colloquy is important: "Mr. Morris. To your knowledge, did he (Herbert Norman) know it was a Communist study group?"

"Dr. Wittfogel. Yes, it was obvious. "Mr. Morris. To you?"

"Dr. Wittfogel. I think it was obvious, in general.

"Mr. Morris. Was it obvious therefore that he was a Communist?"

"Dr. Wittfogel. Yes."

Herbert Norman is an important member of the Canadian foreign office, but earlier in his career he was active in the affairs of the Institute of Pacific Relations. How important he was appears in a memorandum from Edward C. Carter to W. L. Holland, two principal executives of I.P.R., concerning a visit of Phil (not further identified in the record), which includes this sentence:

"... Phil will be in Japan from about September 18 to October 6, (1940) and can be reached care of the Japanese IPR. Any very secret messages might be sent him care of Herbert Norman at the Canadian legation. . ."

This is, for the moment, the public testimony concerning Herbert Norman, but reports are current that there has been considerable further probing in executive session and that this data is likely to be made public in due course.

Herbert Norman at present holds the position in the Canadian government of chief, American-Far Eastern division of the external affairs department; also acting delegate to the United Nations.

The McCarran committee is not seeking to pillory individuals or to undermine reputations. Its object is to discover the pattern of Soviet infiltration into the American government. Naturally, those who were used as mechanics of the espionage apparatus will not voluntarily admit it; those who have been dupes may not even yet know the significance of their role. As Senator McCarran said: this is an investigation into a conspiracy. Conspirators do not admit that they were or are conspirators.

Therefore it is like working with the scrambled tiles of a mosaic that have to be pieced together bit by bit. The data in this investigation, is fuller than similar congressional committees have had, because the McCarran committee has the files of the institute which they subpoenaed from E. C. Carter's barn in Lee, Massachusetts. These files provide data meant only for the eyes of the persons involved. Some of it is astounding, and includes persons outside the United States.

It's not the heat of that RFC investigation that bothers the Truman administration. It's the humiliation.

One of our rocket planes has traveled 1,300 miles an hour, but no one knows yet whether that's a lucky 13.

How pleasant it would be to return to the old days when the only thing threatening the country was the chance Congress might tinker with the tariff.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FIVE

JESS supervised the fencing of the box canyon and Tonto instantly saw how easily the job could be done, how strong a holding pen it would make.

"Looks good, Jess," he approved. "Tell the boys to watch their cigarettes. That grass'll go up quick."

"That worried me," Jess agreed. "I'm going to have a couple of riders up here all the time we're holding the critters. Just in case something happens."

Late afternoon found Tonto very close to the Rafter K line. He reined in on his side of the high, tight fence and hooked a knee over the saddle-horn, cuffing his hat back from his dusty face.

For a long time he stared at the low, rolling hills that hid the Rafter K ranch house from his sight. There were more than hills holding him back, he thought ruefully, more than a high, tight fence. He had an impulse to ride over and explain things to Lois, then told himself he'd have the ride for nothing.

His thoughts turned to Ruby Sevier and he tried to find some answer to that strange enigma. He had balanced what she had told him about herself against her actions since he had known her and found the whole thing paradoxical.

She claimed an almost aloof attitude toward Rick Staples and regarded Overby distantly. He recalled the little room in the hidden shack and the kiss that had gone through him like an electric shock.

She had said she loved him. It was strange and confusing. In bearing and demeanor, she was forthright and honest. She had something of a man's approach to a situation, logical, impersonal with little of the swift feminine emotional reaction. Yet the offering of her love seemed wholly emotional, as though some silent force had swept her off her feet.

Tonto had the usual amount of male conceit, admittedly, and it was nice to believe that he had exerted such an attraction on a girl as beautiful as Ruby Sevier. But there remained a nagging doubt whose roots lay in the other facets of the woman's character.

Tonto unhooked his knee and straightened with a deep sigh and a rueful grin. He had come to Avrillo because of a mysterious letter that had catapulted him into a rich, unexpected legacy. He had started to meet the terms of the legacy and it had brought him to Lois King, whose love he wanted.

It had also brought him into open enmity with Bart Overby and into the orbit of Ruby Sevier, whose love he did not want. Now he had lost Lois. Both Bart Overby and Ken Frick had scores they felt must be settled.

"And I still don't know who killed Rick," he said aloud.

He shrugged, looked again toward the Rafter K. He turned Star and rode away from the line fence, back toward the Slash S yard. It was not yet time to make his peace with Lois King, while the memory of the fight was still vivid in her mind and the marks of Overby's fists were still visible on his face.

The next week was a busy one, and Tonto was grateful that he had little time to think. The roundup of the best beef progressed nicely and the box canyon began to fill. There was a last minute check on the round-up equipment and Tonto rode to Avrillo to contact a cattle buyer.

The man was not yet in town and Tonto rode forty miles to the railroad town. He had been in Avrillo only a short time and did not see Overby. Vic Ellers had been in the General Store and he had word of the gambler.

"Bart's up and around again. His face is a little messed up but that'll pass. He ain't liking you none, Tonto."

"I didn't expect it. But I've got no hard feelings."

"Can I tell Bart that?" Vic said sharply.

"Sure, I mean it. But that's no sign I'll back down or take a howling."

"Fair enough, I reckon. Heard him and Ruby had some mighty hot words right after the fight. I reckon they've patched things up now, though."

"Why do you think Ruby?"

Tonto started and something in Vic's expression stopped him. The pictures with his arm around a commy general's shoulders when it should have been his neck.

But there's one thing you can say for the "police action". . . it doesn't get any less screwier as it gets older.

And how have you been?

What he needs now, he says, are children's clothes, men and large women's clothes and shoes for adults. He has impressed on everyone at the mission, right down to the school kids, the need for not overlooking the slightest chance to get food, clothes or money for their cause.

"In fact," he told me, smiling, "one time when I was celebrating mass, I asked a small altar boy to take the basket and take up the collection—and not to miss anyone. 'Anyone—you hear?' I told him. A little while later he came back—and shoved the basket under my nose for a contribution."

By MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK—I met a man today and asked him what he was doing up in New York and he told me "Begging." I didn't toss him a quarter and I didn't turn my pockets inside out and say, "Sorry, Mac, I lost all my dough in a poker game," the way I sometimes do when I am dodging a guy putting the arm on me. All I did was come away from him determined to tell people about him and his work.

His name is Father Anthony McCabe and he's a Dominican. He is thickset and good-looking and he smiles easily. He runs a mission down in Columbia, S. C. All I know about it is what he told me and what I've read, but it surely must be one of the poorest missions in the world. It is for them that Father McCabe comes to New York. To beg.

Religion is something I try to steer clear of in this column because, for one thing, I don't know enough about it. For another thing, I'm an Episcopalian, not a Catholic, and I'm a little afraid that some of my fellow Episcopalians might jump down my neck and say something about what's the matter, don't we have enough Episcopal missions to write about? The good ones, of course, wouldn't dream of it. But religion is a little off my beat. However, Father McCabe is a good man. That's about all you have to know, I think, to be on a man's side. To worry about which way he wears his collar is a little on the precious side.

When you become a Dominican, you take a vow of obedience and you go anywhere you're sent. From 1937 to 1947, with time out for the war—he was chaplain with the famous 165th Infantry and got the Purple Heart during the Makin and Saipan invasions—Father McCabe was with the Church of St. Vincent Ferrer in Manhattan. Then they sent him down to the mission of Blessed Martin DePorres in South Carolina, and he discovered a whole, new—and seedy—world.

Miss Nita Jean Michel. Ray Harden Jr. Are Wed In Double-Ring Ceremony

Go To Michigan On Wedding Trip

In a double ring ceremony performed Sunday, Aug. 12 in Mt. Sterling Methodist church, Miss Nita Jean Michel became the bride of Ray Harden Jr.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Michel of Orient and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Harden of Williamsport.

For the event the church was decorated with a wedding arch, decorated with white gladioli on either side in addition to white asters, palms and seven branch candelabra. A half hour of bridal music, played by Mrs. O. J. Ray at the organ, preceded the ceremony. Vocal selections were sung by Mrs. Wynn Rodgers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a bridal gown of heavy ivory satin fashioned with a basque bodice which featured a nylon tulle yoke, fishu trimmed, with hand rolled satin rosebuds. A wide ruffle of tulle completely circled the bouffant skirt and cathedral train. Her finger-tip veil of illusion was caught to a double trimmed halo of lace. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls. She carried her Eastern Star Bible with cascading white satin ribbons tied with Stephanotis and topped with four orchids.

Maid of honor was Miss Lucille Neal and bridesmaids were Miss Anna May Downs and Miss Alice Wickline. Their gowns were styled identically in green taffeta with moulded bodices which featured off-the-shoulder der portrait necklines and box-pleated skirts worn over old-fashioned hoops. Wearing tiaras of pink rosebuds in their hair, they were carrying baskets of yellow roses and pink asters with trailing ribbons of contrasting colors. *tizi Lynn Smith, a cousin of the bride was flower girl, wearing a colonial dress of pink taffeta.

Serving as best man was Kenneth Harden, brother of the bridegroom. Guests were seated by Harold Furniss, Ronnie Conard, and Harold Tootle. Glen Ingman and William Neff served as candlelighters and Richard Holtzman was ring bearer. Ladies of the church acted as hostesses for the reception held in the church following the ceremony.

The bride's mother was attired in a navy blue lace dress with matching accessories. Her flowers were a shoulder corsage of yellow roses. The bridegroom's mother was wearing a bolero dress of dusty rose with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

The new Mrs. Harden, a graduate of Darby Township high school, was formerly associated with an insurance firm in Columbus. The bridegroom, a graduate of McGuffey high school is engaged in farming.

For their wedding trip to Michigan the bride changed to a navy blue crepe, trimmed in taffeta with white accessories.

On their return they will make their home near Amanda.

The Last Frontier --Space

by JACK GEIGER
INS Staff Correspondent

Men have dreamed for centuries of defying gravity, of floating weightlessly in space. As the reality of man's first flights across "the last frontier" into space draws nearer, the dream threatens to become a nightmare. For no one knows whether humans, freed of gravity's effects, can long survive. The following article, third of a series, gives the views of two of the scientists intimately concerned with these inter-stellar problems and describes some of the strange but fascinating experiments they plan to perform.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24—The first rocket pilot of the future probably will be a prime physical specimen and a highly intelligent man.

He will be trained by years of schooling in astronomy, radar and advanced electronics, navigation and a dozen other sciences.

But he won't be able to tell you which way is up.

There is no "up" in a space rocket because there is no gravity. Humans will be weightless and so will the canned air they breathe. Objects will "float" freely. Liquids will hang suspended in little globules instead of pouring. You'll be able to sleep balanced on your head if you choose.

AND WHILE all this sounds like fun, it probably won't be. For humans were built to live in the earth's gravitational field. They developed skeletons and muscles to withstand the earth's pull—an acceleration of 32 feet a second every second.

What will happen when the body—its bone, muscle, internal organs, blood and nerves—is weightless? Scientists are not certain.

But two of the men intimately concerned with this question have a vivid idea of the problems involved. In a forthcoming book called "Space Medicine" they offer some novel solutions.

On earth, Dr. Paul Campbell of the U. S. Airforce points out, you have an easy time telling whether you are right-side up. Your eyes supply one set of information.

The tiny utricular labyrinth of the ear—the mechanism that gives you your sense of balance—responds to the pulls of gravity and tangential acceleration. That is why you can locate up, down and sideways—and tell which way you are headed—even with your eyes closed on earth. And finally, the so-called kinesthetic receptors—tiny nerve endings located in muscle and internal organs—respond partly to gravity and partly to muscle tension. They register the position of all the parts of your body.

HUMANS CAN get along on any two of these systems, Dr. Campbell says, but nobody knows whether they can function indefinitely on just one. And—without gravity—the labyrinths and the kinesthetic systems won't work.

If you are sitting down with your arm at rest on a table, for example, the arm drops to your side when you stand. But in a gravity-free rocket ship your arm will rise with you or even shoot higher—and you will not know it unless you see it.

The rocket passenger must learn to orient himself with his eyes alone. There is no certainty that it can be done.

The best way to find out, Dr. Campbell suggests, is to take volunteer congenitally deaf-mutes—men who have no utricular labyrinths—clothe them in divers' suits and send them down into the ocean to a point where the upward buoyancy of water equals the downward pull of the earth. Then they will be gravity-free and their kinesthetic receptors will not work.

Then, Dr. Campbell says, they can be given visual tests to see if they can orient themselves. Dr. Campbell takes hope from the fact that airplane pilots have been taught to orient themselves visually—by reading instruments—even when their labyrinths and kinesthetic receptors, buffeted by the plane's motion, gave them false information—perhaps worse than no information at all.

The space traveller will be no fashion plate. Under the best of conditions, his weightless clothes will sag peculiarly.

HE WILL have to wear a special anti-gravity suit with pressure belts to stem the rush of blood away from the head during the rocket ship's tremendous acceleration away from the earth.

And even then, he may float aimlessly about the rocket cabin every time he makes a move.

So, underneath the anti-gravity suit, he may be wearing magnetic underwear—a tight-fitting covering with enough metal strands woven into the fabric to orient passengers to magnetic flooring and seats.

The scientists do not say how a man with magnetic underwear, standing on a magnetic floor, will keep his pants up.

Ashville

Mrs. A. W. Boone is confined to University Hospital, Columbus, where she has been receiving medical treatment since last Sunday. Mrs. Boone, who is much improved, expects to return home within a few days.

The Ashville fire department was called to the A. W. Boone home, north of Ashville, Tuesday afternoon when a trash fire spread into weeds and grass in the fruit orchard. One small outbuilding burned and some damage was done to a few fruit trees.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Irwin and Helen attended funeral services Wednesday for Bennet McNeal of Trotwood who was killed in a fatal automobile accident Sunday evening. Services were held in Trotwood with interment at Casstown.

Fritz Gronbach, an eighteen year old German boy, will attend Ashville-Harrison high school this Fall under a program sponsored by such organizations as the Grange, Farm Bureau and National Catholic Conference to bring European pupils to the United States to teach them Democracy and the American way of life. Fritz, whose home is near Weerttemberg, Germany, is living with Mr. and Mrs. John Dowler and is sponsored by the Farm Bureau and the State Department of Education. In German schools he has had such high school subjects as chemistry, typing, and algebra. While in Ashville he will specialize in English, mathematics, and U. S. Government.

The Ashville Community Club will hold a dinner meeting Monday, August 27 at 6:30 in the Ashville Lutheran Church. Reservations need not be made in advance. Decisions concerning future club projects will be made in the business meeting, according to club president, Wade Catter.

Early September Said Best Time To Mow Seedings

Practice Aids Weed Control

Sweet Clover Is Not Included

Experiments conducted by the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station show it is advisable to mow new seedings about the first of September, according to Larry Best, Pickaway County extension agent.

"This applies to all seedings of meadow legumes except sweet clover," he said.

Part of the benefit from mowing seems to be control of weeds—particularly of the Fall grasses, Best said. The practice also reduces the amount of trash in the first cutting of hay the following year.

The September 1 cutting also prevents accumulation of rank growth during the Fall and avoids the question of whether or not to make stubble hay.

WHERE AN excessive growth is permitted to develop in the Fall, there is danger of losing the stand from lodging if the stubble is left standing. There is also danger of losing the stand due to starvation of the plants if stubble hay is cut.

Alfalfa should not be clipped between September 10 and the end of October. This is the interval during which a alfalfa stores food for the winter. Fall-clipping results in starvation of the plants and loss of stand during the winter.

In making the September 1 clipping, the cutter bar should not be tilted. New growth of meadow legumes, except sweet clover, comes from the plant crown at ground level and will not be injured by close mowing.

On the other hand, Best said, close mowing does a better job of controlling weeds than if the mower is set to leave a high stubble.

Sweet clover should not be mowed during the seeding year.

Dayton Weights Found Wrong

DAYTON, Aug. 24 — A good many Dayton housewives either are being short-weighted or do not know what they are buying.

The Dayton Bureau of Weights and Measures reported that just about 20 percent of the packaged food checked last month was either short in weight or improperly labeled.

City sealer Roy Taylor said more than 2,800 of the 15,000 packages from 17 Dayton stores were found to be inaccurate.

Columbus Man Gets Real Estate Post

CEDAR POINT, Aug. 24 — I. C. Jackson of Columbus is the new president of the Ohio Association of Real Estate Boards.

Jackson was elected at the closing session of the group's convention at Cedar Point Wednesday. He succeeds Harold S. Goodrich, also of Columbus.

Morgan L. Fitch of Chicago, past president of the National Real Estate Board, told the delegates last night that rent control and public housing is the basis of collectivist state.

"Let these twin evils expand and you mark the end, not alone of your business but of freedom as an inalienable human right," Fitch declared.

Herbert U. Nelson, executive vice president of the National Real Estate Board, urged creation of a national central mortgage discount bank as a solution to recurring mortgage difficulties and as an agent for public investment.

MP Sergeants Get Jail Terms

CINCINNATI, Aug. 24 — Two military police sergeants must serve six months and four months, respectively, for beating up soldiers in the Cincinnati Military Police headquarters.

A court martial found Robert G. Booth of Cambridge and Orville G. Kessell of Ripley, W. Va., guilty after an hour's deliberation.

Booth got the heavier penalty on three counts of assault and battery and was fined $25 for each month of confinement. Kessell was convicted on one count and fined $25 for each month in jail. The court also stripped the men of their rank.

E. Weiland has half a dozen men ready to recommend for the expanded staff.

The last general assembly allotted an extra $50,000 for the current fiscal year and an added $100,000 for the following year to pay for increased commission services.

Foley Given 20 Days Off For Ring Incident

COLUMBUS, Aug. 24 — R. E. Foley, registrar of the state bureau of motor vehicles, was suspended for 20 days yesterday for accepting—but later returning—a diamond ring from state employees.

State Highway Director T. J. Kauer, Foley's boss who announced the suspension, said:

"In view of the type of the gift and the time of its presentation, his (Foley's) failure to promptly reject it constitutes an indiscretion requiring the imposition of a 20-day suspension from work without pay."

Kauer said his investigation disclosed that a diamond ring was given Foley by 16 traveling auditors in the bureau. Kauer said Foley first refused to accept the ring but "took it reluctantly" at the insistence of the donors.

THE HIGHWAY director said acceptance of the gift was conditional upon Foley's decision, following his return from vacation, as to whether he would keep the gift.

In announcing Foley's suspension Kauer said the ring had been returned to the donors. He added:

"Investigation disclosed that the thought of the gift was not in any manner initiated by Foley but was the spontaneous decision of the donors."

The highway director said he had discussed the incident with the governor and that Lausche "is in accord with the action taken."

Kauer was directed to investigate the incident by Governor Lausche who has a long-standing policy against such gifts by state employees to their super-

At the time he ordered the investigation Lausche said Foley might have to resign.
